

A cold case no more – unlocking our DNA yields transformative results

Thirty years after the Human Genome Project launched, technology allows us to reap its everlasting rewards.

13 YEARS

Duration of the Human Genome Project, which launched in October 1990 and was completed in April 2003

400 MILLION

Number of people worldwide living with rare diseases

10,000+

Number of clinical trials for new cancer therapies now recruiting in the US

80%

of rare diseases are genetic in origin

$1 TRILLION+

Amount of economic return generated by the project, which also has created hundreds of thousands of jobs.

95%

of rare diseases do not have a treatment approved by the FDA

